

Learning Management System (LMS)

Deliver health and safety training and manage workforce competency with our LMS

Smarter training. Stronger competency.

Delivering Health and Safety training and managing competency across a large workforce is no easy task; particularly when employees are geographically dispersed, working in hazardous environments or undertaking higher-risk activities.

If you're responsible for planning and delivering H&S training and maintaining workforce competency, our online Learning Management System (LMS) gives you greater flexibility and visibility, while making training straightforward for your employees to access.

Together we can create a tailored package to make training delivery and competency management work in your world.

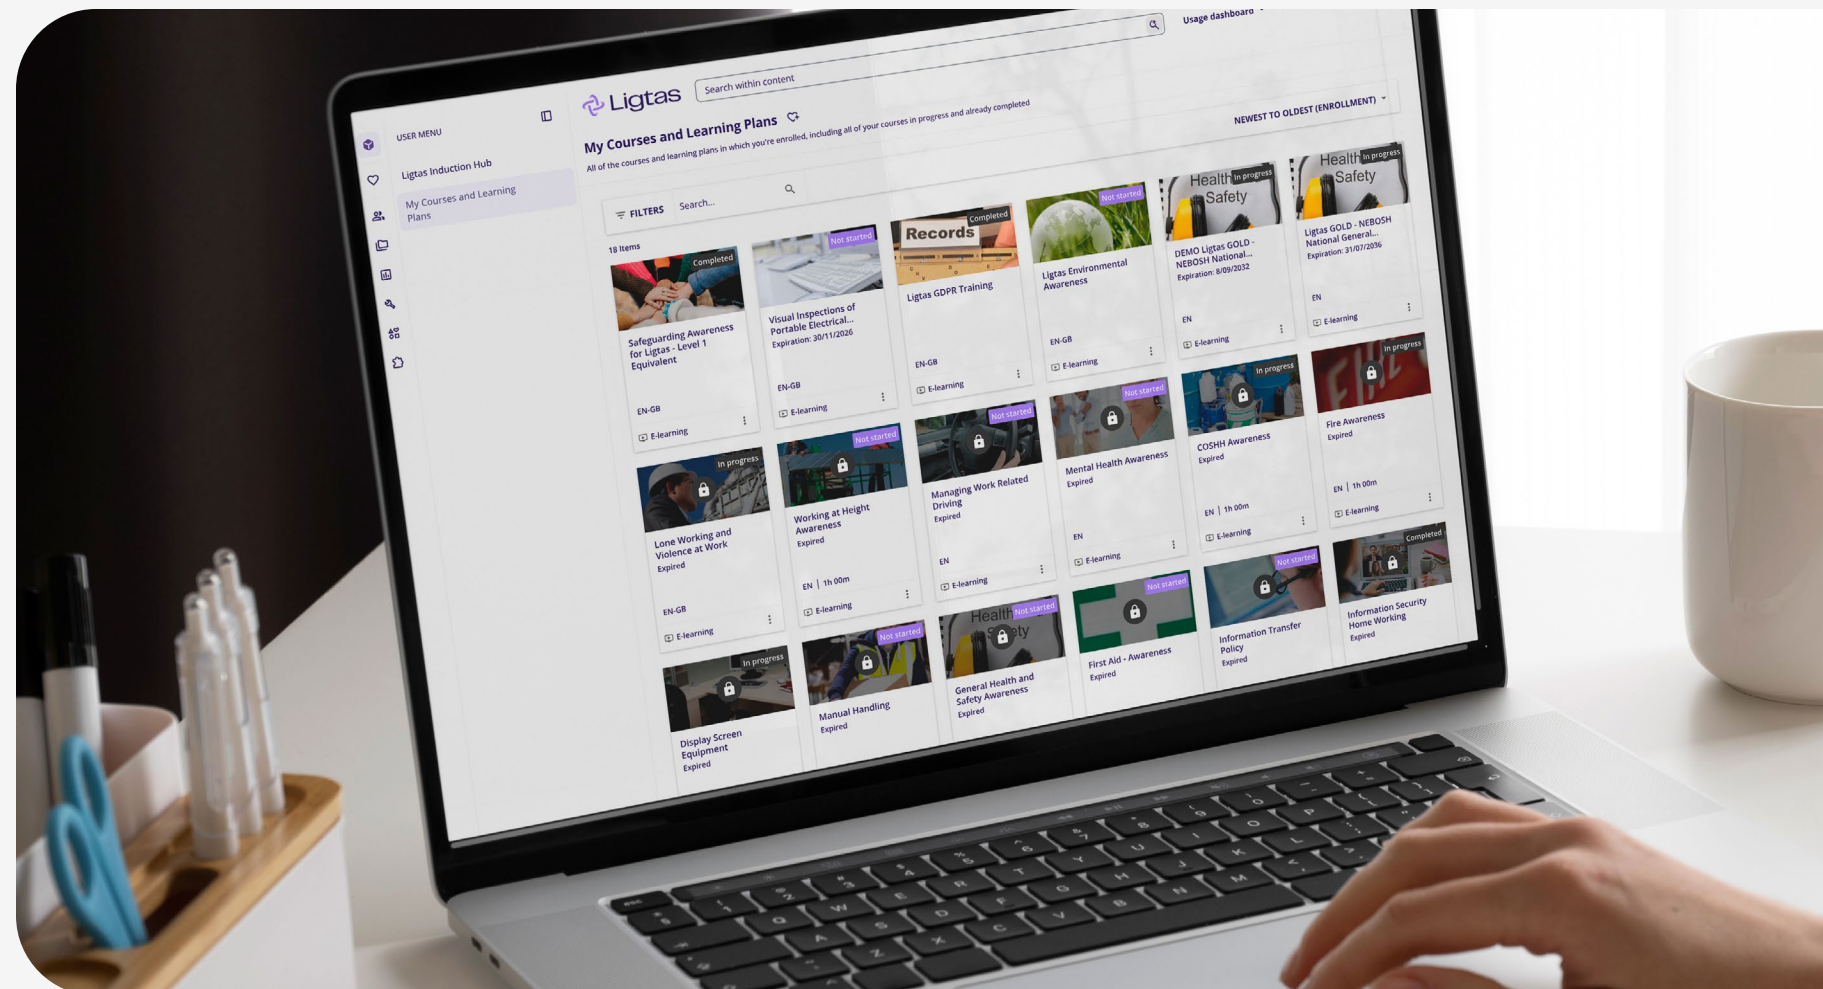

One system. Greater visibility of training and competency

Built on the globally recognised Docebo platform, the Ligtas LMS provides an accessible and inclusive learning environment aligned with recognised international accessibility standards. It can support everything from basic employee inductions to professional H&S qualifications.

“The LMS can support everything from basic employee inductions to professional H&S qualifications.”

Manage training at scale

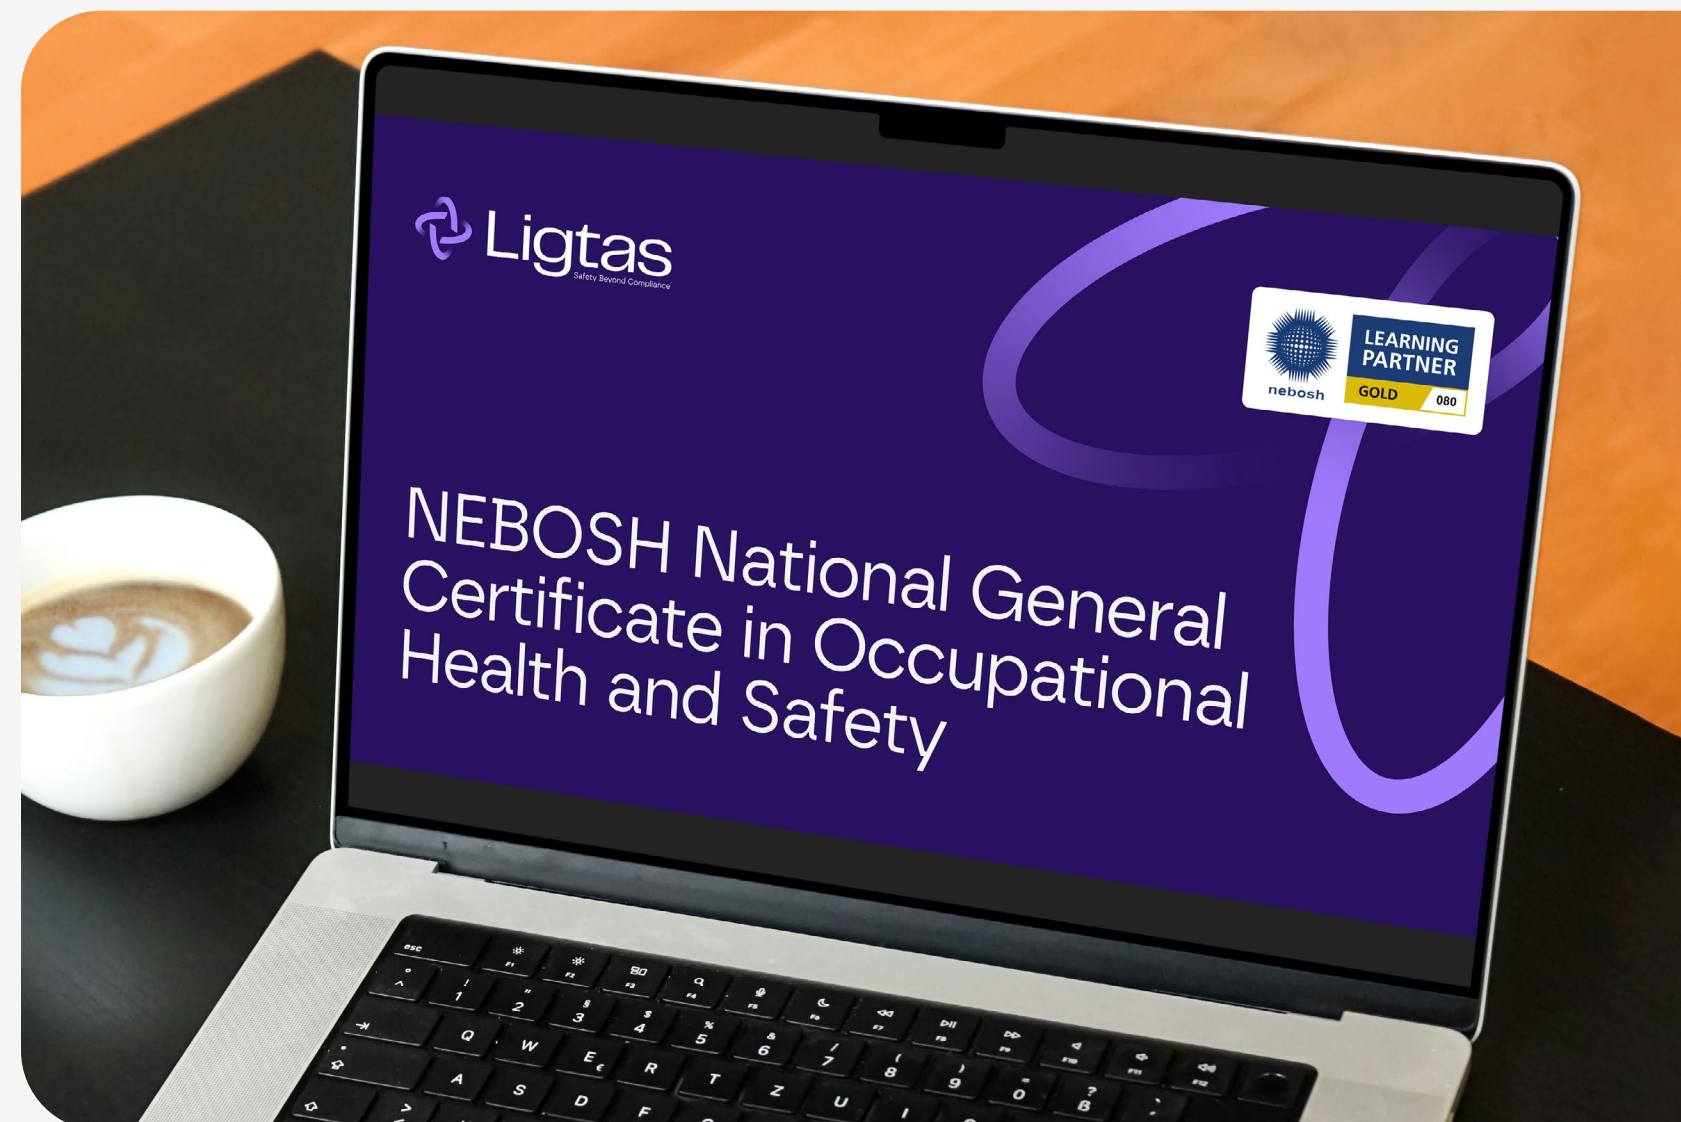

- Mass enrolment for large groups of workers
- Same day access to standard courses
- Assign different levels of management and system access across your team
- Create individual or team learning plans
- Track eLearning, virtual and classroom training in one place

See the bigger competency picture

Get a clear view of training and competency with online training records, a Skills Matrix and custom dashboards that let you monitor progress by team, role or individual.

Stay audit-ready with refresher training alerts, user time logs and secure storage for certificates, policies, procedures and other key documents.

Make learning easier to access

Create a learning environment that feels like part of your organisation by applying your branding, and give employees a flexible, engaging way to learn wherever they're based.

- Secure online access via a custom URL, in their chosen language
- On-demand eLearning and virtual courses reduce the need for travel and associated costs
- Video, voiceovers, quizzes, exercises and knowledge checks help keep learners engaged
- Online forums give learners a space to ask questions and share knowledge with their peers

Health and Safety training backed by 30 years of experience

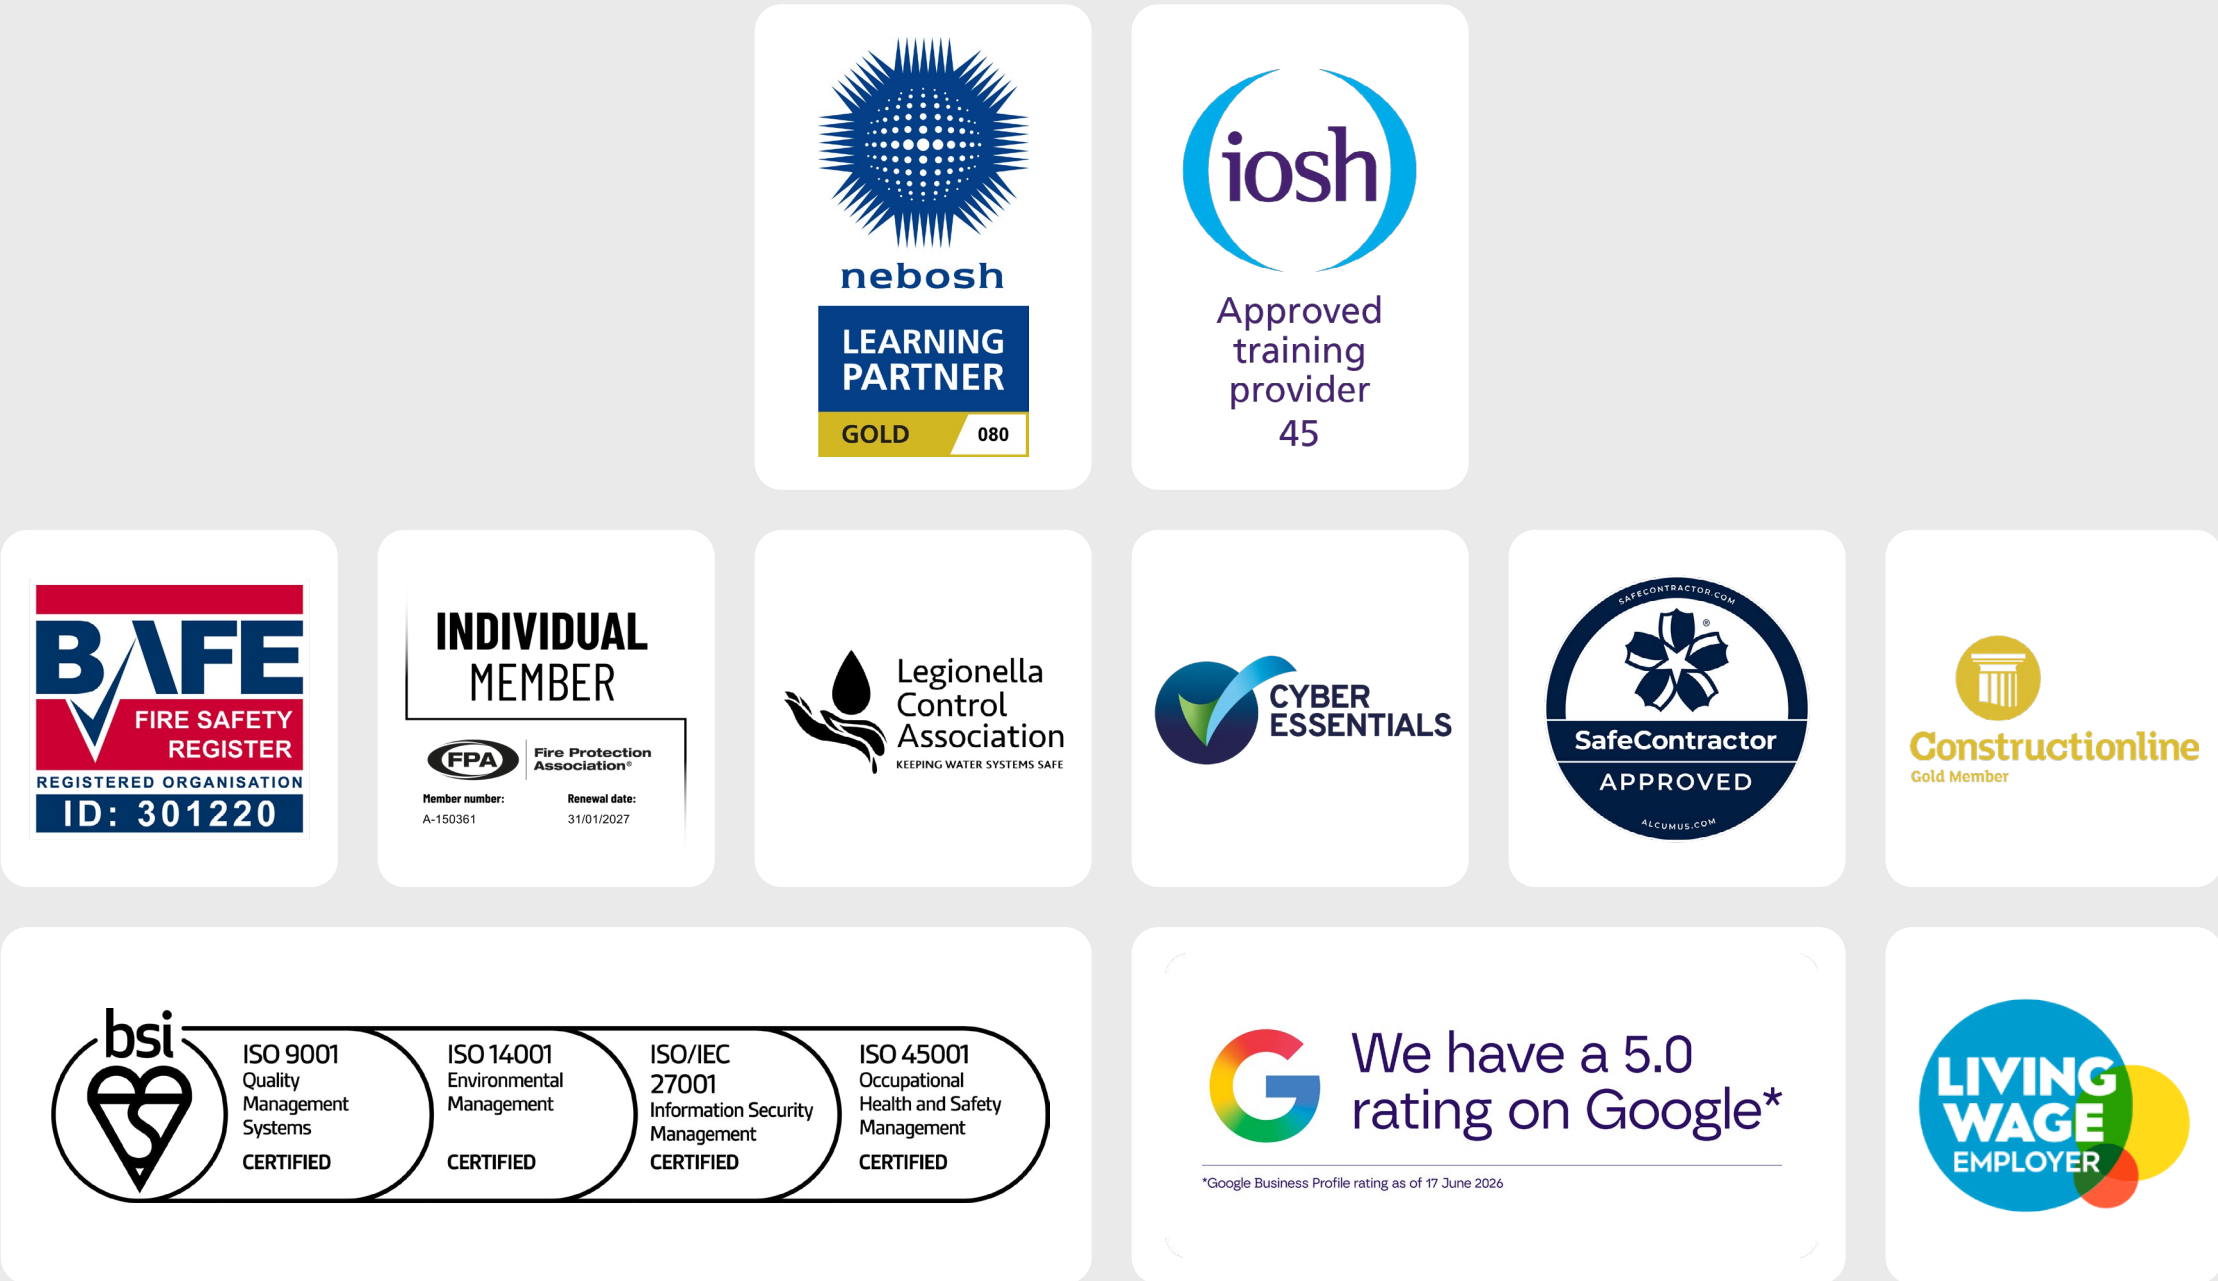

Learn from experienced, practising health and safety consultants who bring real-world scenarios and practical insight into every course. So learners build more than theoretical knowledge – they develop practical safety competencies they can apply in the workplace.

Access our suite of Ligtas-certified and accredited courses, or work with our experts to develop training tailored to your organisation.

- Health, Safety & Fire Courses
- IOSH Courses
- NEBOSH Courses
- Tailored Courses

A multi-accredited training provider

Ligtas is a NEBOSH Gold Learning Partner and is rated 'outstanding' by IOSH.

An LMS that fits your organisation

There's no one-size-fits-all approach to managing workforce training. Choose the level of support that works for you, and we'll tailor your LMS package around your workforce and training requirements.

Fully Managed

Let Ligtas take care of LMS administration, reporting and learner management.

Client Managed

Take control of your own administration, users, content and reporting.

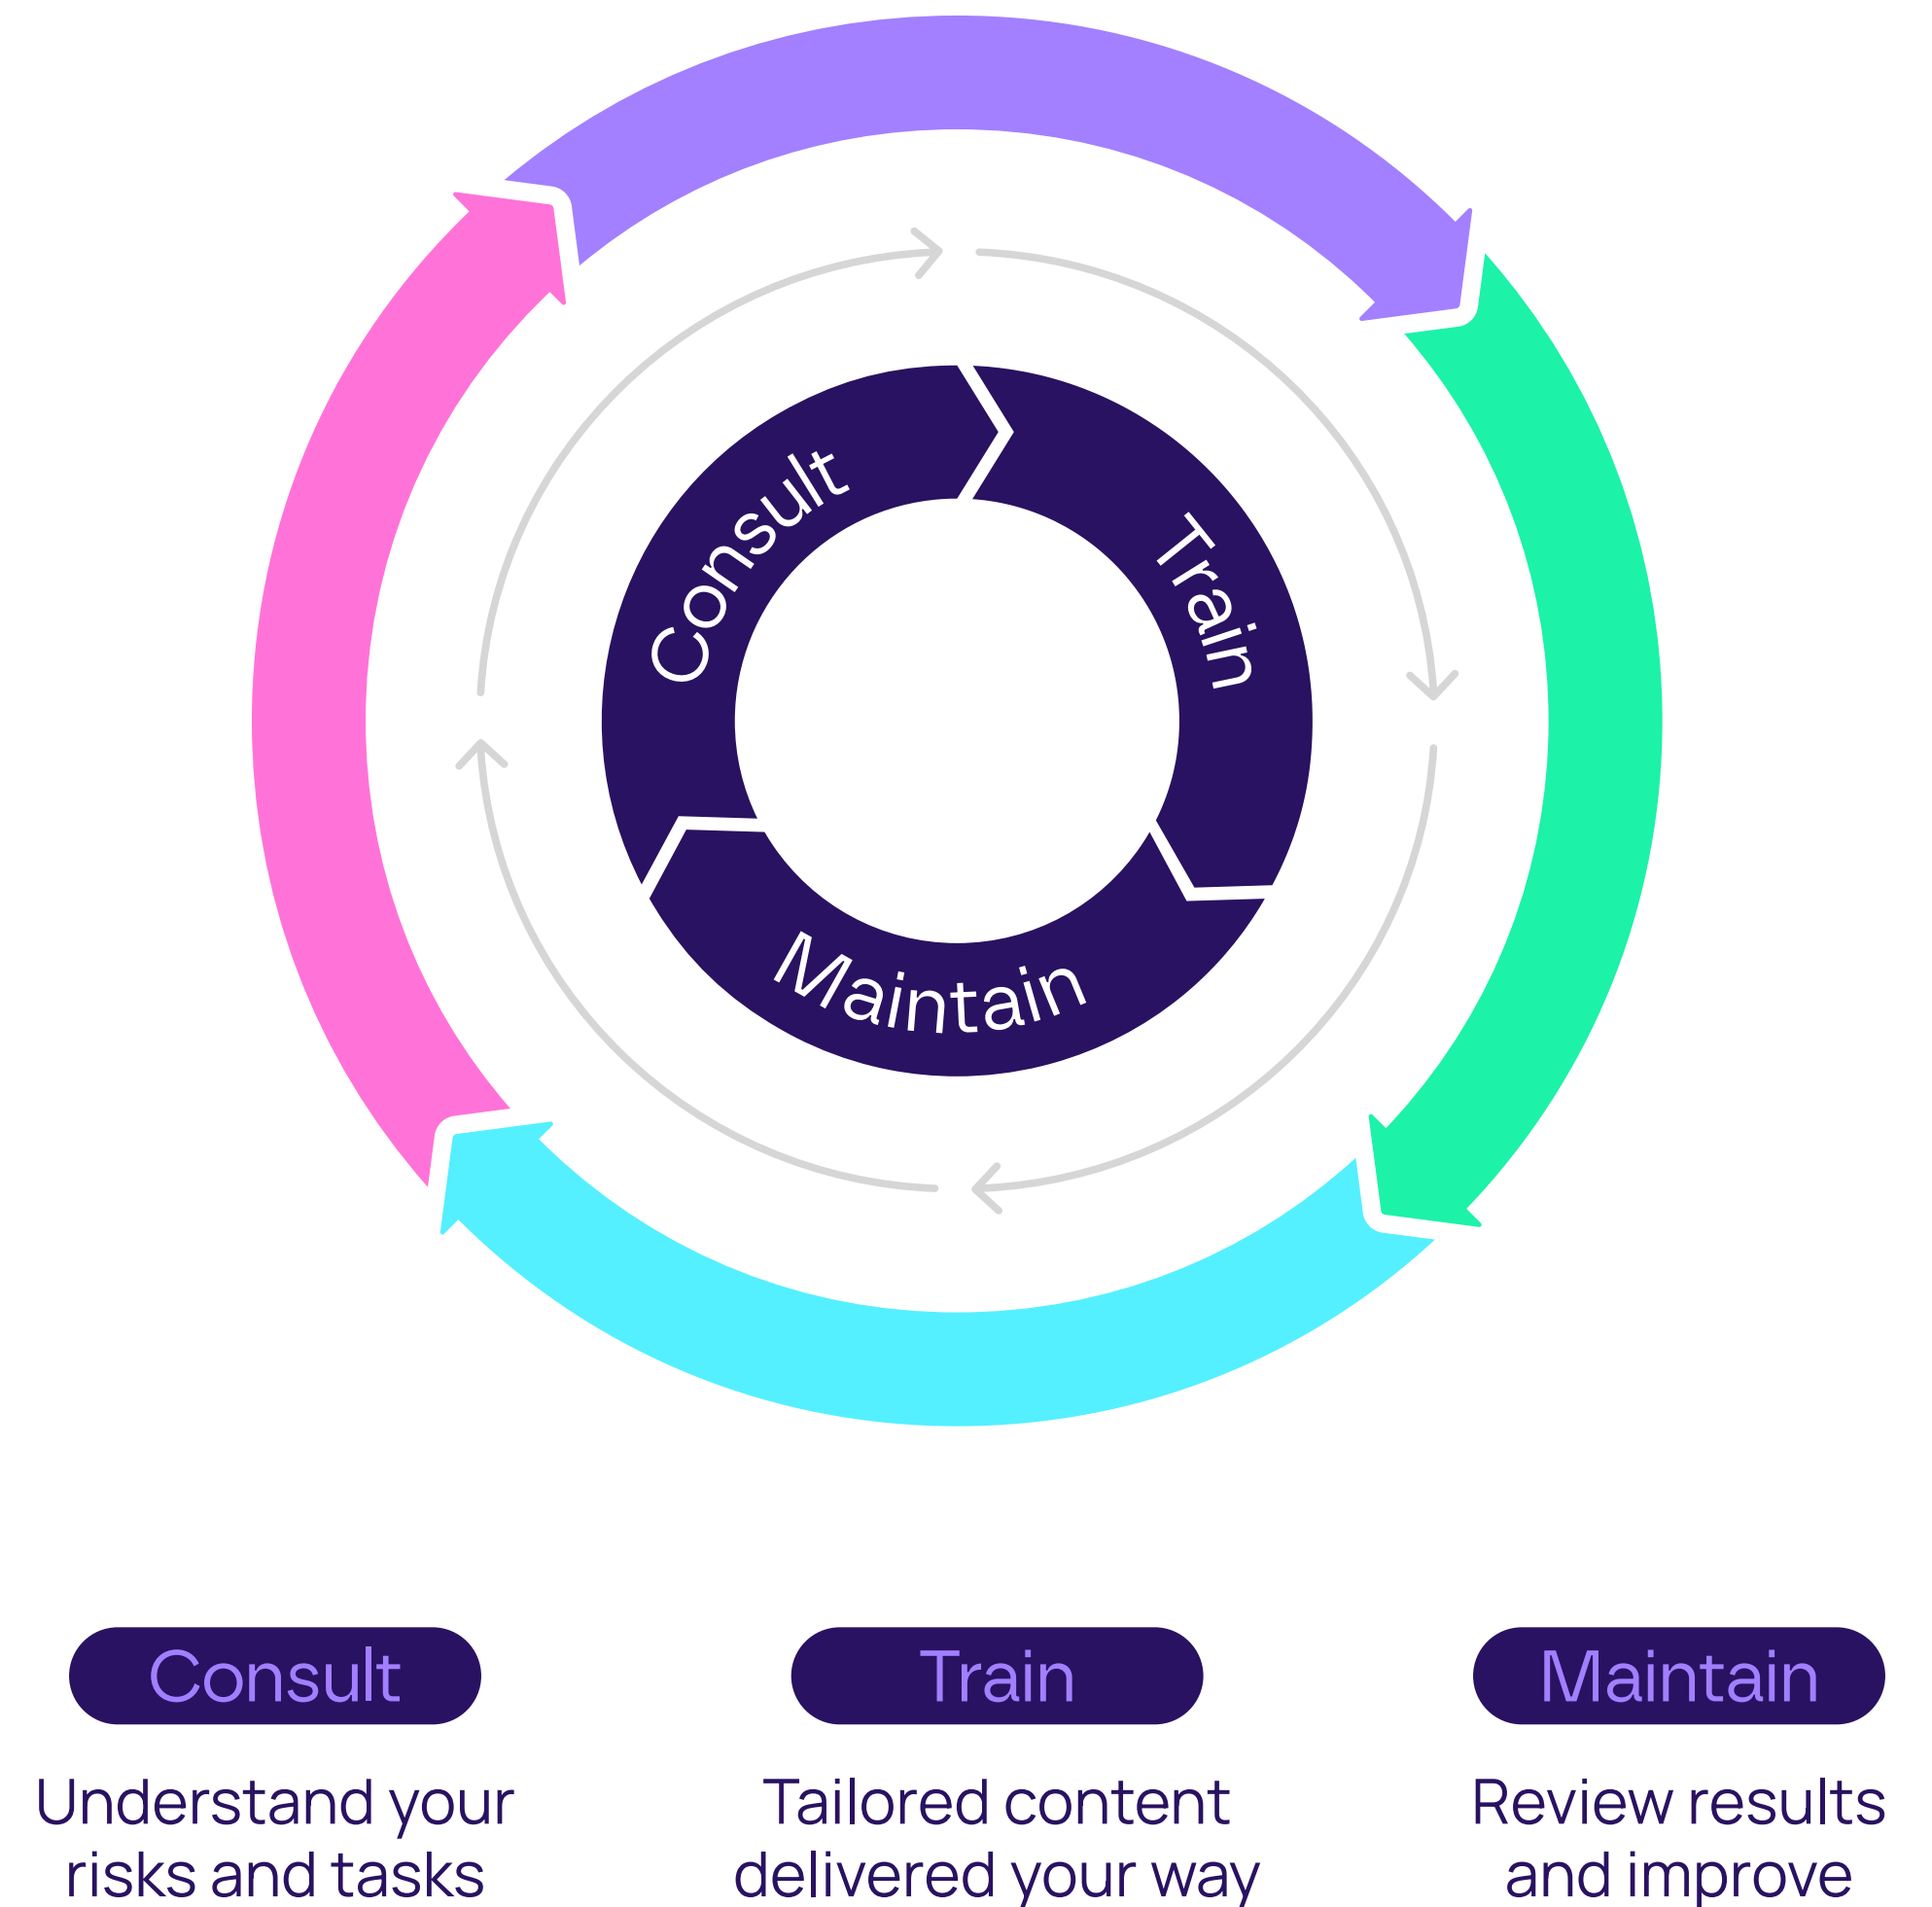

The price will flex depending on the number of users, number and type of courses and the length of our agreement.

Already have an LMS? We can provide the content without the platform

Our experts can work in partnership with you to develop tailored or completely bespoke course content using our Consult-Train-Maintain approach. Go beyond building knowledge to develop practical competencies and influence behaviour, helping keep your people safe in the real world.

- eLearning courses supplied as SCORM files for your LMS
- Virtual and classroom courses, with or without a trainer to deliver them
- Supporting course materials including handbooks, course notes and assessments
- Collaborative online review and sign-off process
